TEN AMERICANS IN DANGER OF LOSING LIVES IN MEXICO

Defend Homes When Attacked By a Band of Rural Guards

ORDER ISSUED TO EXTEND LINES

Funston Sends Troops Further In Direction of the Mexican Capital

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Ten members of the Smith family in jail at Tonala, Chiapas, are in danger of their lives because of Mexican resentment of their part in the recent killing of three Mexicans at San Pedro, according to a report to-day from Minister Leovell in Guatemala.

The Mexicans were members of a rural guard, and invaded the Smith home at San Pedro to disarm the occupants. In the fight which ensued, the Mexicans were worsted, but the Americans were later arrested.

One American and two British subjects have been killed at mines in the vicinity of Guadalajara. A Mr. Randall, presumably a British subject, and seven Americans are cut off by bandits in the vicinity. Other Americans are safe. This information came in a dispatch from the British vice consul at Guadalajara to the British embassy to-day.

Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge of the American embassy at Mexico City until United States troops seized Vera Cruz, arrived in Washington early to-day.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Orders were sent Wednesday from the War Department to Gen. Funston authorizing him to extend his lines about Vera Cruz as far as "in his judgment it is necessary."

This gives the American commander virtually a free hand in dealing with the situation at Vera Cruz and it was said that the American lines would at once be extended and heavy fortifications thrown up.

Gen. Funston reported to the War Department to-day that he had no definite information regarding movements of Mexican troops, and said he thought it probable that such concentration as the Mexican forces had made was only for the purpose of defending the lines of railroads to Mexico City in case the United States troops should advance.

Mexican natives reported that the track of the Inter-Oceanic railroad was being torn up.

FISCAL COURT MEETS BUT TRANSACTS LITTLE BUSINESS.

The Fiscal Court met yesterday in regular monthly meeting, but little business of any importance was before the body. Judge C. A. McMillan presided with Magistrates Ernest Martin, E. P. Thomason, R. H. Burris, J. J. Redmon, A. L. Stephenson, Jno. N. Shropshire and O. B. Lloyd in attendance.

Road Engineer C. A. Redmon submitted his report for the month of April, which was accepted and ordered of record, while an order was entered instructing County Treasurer Bedford to borrow $10,000 for use in the general fund payable December 1 at 5 per cent. interest.

It was ordered that the sum of $50 from the Hamilton Trust be granted Miss Ethel Campbell be transferred to Miss Gertrude Bramel. After passing a few minor orders and allowances, the usual number of account, court adjourned.

MRS. PAYNE TO LECTURE BEFORE C. W. B. M. TONIGHT

Mrs. Ellie K. Payne, of Indianapolis, Ind., Superintendent of the Young People's Department of the C. W. B. M., will give a lecture here this evening at 7:30 at the Christian church. All are cordially invited to hear Mrs. Payne. The lecture is free.

GRANDFATHER OF GEN. FUNSTON LIVED HERE.

Col. W. H. Polk, of Lexington, renowned as a historian, while speaking of the Mexican invasion a few days ago, said: "The grandfather of Gen. Fred Funston—whose first name I believe was Paul—was a citizen of Paris, Ky., early in the last century, and was a member of a company from Bourbon in the war of 1812. He was a saddler by trade and carried on that business at Paris. He had a brother, John, who was a tough citizen. Both moved to New Philadelphia, O., where Gen. Funston's father is said to have been born."

BOURBON MAN IS AMONG REFUGEES

Mrs. M. R. Collier, of Millersburg, this county, is in receipt of a letter from her son, Mr. Wm. Collier, mailed at Tampico, Mexico, in which he stated that he had escaped injury in the several skirmishes which had taken place in that city, and is believed now to be among the refugees enroute to Galveston, Texas. Mr. Collier stated that while in Tampico with a large number of refugees, he was confined in quarters in a hotel and for fear of losing his life would not venture upon the streets. There were between six and eight hundred Americans taken from the city and placed aboard a battleship where they were held in quarantine a week before they were transferred to a transport and the entire number sent to Galveston. He further stated that many of the refugees who were compelled to flee were without money and clothing, and many of them who had been wealthy had their fortunes reduced to nothing by the war. According to Mr. Collier many of the refugees upon landing in Galveston, would be requested to proceed to Washington to lay the distressing facts before the government with a view of securing reparation for the loss of property. Mr. Collier was a prosperous rancher and owned a large tract of land several miles from Tampico. In February a fierce battle was fought between the rebel and federal forces on his ranch. After the battle the victorious rebels burned his residence and stock barns and made away with everything of value. With his wife and two children Mr. Collier managed to escape and made their way to Tampico, where his wife and children embarked from the United States and he remained there to dispose of the stock and effects he had saved. Mrs. Collier and her children reached this city about a month ago.

YEGGMEN BLOW SAFE; GET $60

Daring Robbery Committed By Burglars Early Wednesday

Yeggmen, using the most modern methods of their craft, entered the office of Spears & Sons, on South Main street some time during the night Tuesday and after blowing the safe took from it about $60 in silver and one check.

Entrance was gained through the front door of the office when the burglar broke one corner of the glass and unlocked the night lock. Nitroglycerine was used, and the work is believed to have been done by experts.

After entering the building the robbers it is believed turned their attention first to the large safe, the outer door of which was only fastened with the night lock and could be opened easily while the inner steel door was opened without much trouble.

The burglars then encountered the strong box with the combination and of several inches in thickness, which was suspended from the top of the safe and supported by heavy steel bars. The front of the combination was soaped and a heavy charge of the explosive applied.

The safe was almost completely wrecked by the explosion which broke the combination and hurled the heavy outer door from its hinges. Articles about the room were somewhat damaged by flying pieces of steel.

Residents of the neighborhood were aroused by the explosion but little attention was paid to it, owing to the large amount of noise made in the south yards of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, while the night forces are switching cars. Owing to the office being so near the railroad where employees are passing constantly and a restaurant nearby which keeps open all night, it was not thought necessary to employ a night watchman, and the office and milling plant was entirely deserted.

Immediately after the robbery was discovered Wednesday morning the police were notified and an investigation began. The officials received information that several suspicious characters had been seen in the neighborhood the day before and descriptions were furnished them. While there are several suspects being watched, no arrests have been made. It is probable the robbery was committed by members of a gang that have been operating in several Kentucky towns during the past several weeks.

This is the third time the large safe in the office of Spears & Sons has been blown by yeggmen in the past four or five years. On a former occasion a charge of nitro exploded with such force that several hundred dollars in bills were almost completely destroyed. This time, however, the burglars evidently becoming frightened made away without securing any money.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD HERE IN JUNE

Assembly Will Bring Large

Number of Delegates to Paris Next Month

LOCAL LEAGUE

TO ENTERTAIN

Committees Appointed At a Meeting Held Last Night

The Fifth Annual Assembly of the Kentucky Conference Epworth League will be held in this city June 24-27. This conference will bring together quite a large number of young people, each Senior League being entitled to a delegate for every twenty-five members, and each Junior League will send a delegate, and each pastoral charge of the Kentucky Conference where there is not a League, may send one.

Mr. Dennis V. Snapp, president of the Paris Epworth League, is in receipt of a letter from Rev. J. B. Harris, president of the Kentucky Conference Epworth League, which states that the program is now being made up, and will be announced as soon as completed. It is understood that Rev. E. G. B. Mann will preach the opening sermon on the 24th, and Rev. Dr. J. O. A. Vaughn will have charge of the morning watch each day. A team of Epworth League specialists from Nashville, Tenn., will have charge of the Normal work. A man of ability from the church-at-large will have charge of the two evening services and the consecration service, which will be the closing service.

Several committees are suggested in the program to be appointed, which will come from the Paris Epworth League. Accordingly at the regular monthly business session, held last night, President Snapp appointed the following:

Recreation Committee—Mr. Prentice Lancaster, Chairman; Miss Elizabeth Mann, Mrs. S. T. Chipley and Messrs. Fennell Galloway and W. O. Fuller. This committee is to work out a plan of recreation and announce it each day. It is their aim to see that all the delegates engage in some form of recreation. The period will be from 4 to 6 o'clock each afternoon.

Music Committee—Miss Mattie D. Lilleston, Chairman; Mrs. Jas. Grinnell, Jr., Messrs. Allen Smith and N. H. Ecklar. This committee is to arrange for a song service each morning for a half hour, which time will be spent in practicing some of the great Methodist hymns.

Reception Committee—Miss Frances Hancock, Chairman; Miss Gladys Snapp, Mrs. T. J. Flora and Mr. Luther Grinnell and Mrs. Homer Shy.

Badge Committee—Miss Edith Hancock, Chairman; Misses Sara Power, Ethel Freeman, Florence Ellis, Edna Snapp and Eugenia Kendrick.

Decorations Committee—Mrs. Geo. Ellis, Chairman; Mrs. Chas. Alexander, Messrs. R. C. Galloway, Cecil Arnold and Wm. Taylor.

Finance Committee—Mr. Luther McIntire, Chairman; Messrs. W. C. Gentry, S. T. Chipley and Albert Pogue.

Conference Pages—Misses Dorothy Tingle, Virginia Hancock, Lucille Chipley and Ruth Wheeler.

Conference Couriers—Messrs. William McIntire, Howard Roberts, Cletis Chipley, Geo. Rose, Robert Harris, Edward Myers, Stanley Rule and Jesse Galloway.

Committee of Refreshments—Mrs. Robt. McIntire, Chairman; Mrs. N. H. Eckler and Mrs. W. O. Fuller.

Plans are now being arranged for the entertainment of the delegates and any assistance rendered the league in sustaining the well-known hospitality of the Paris people, will be highly appreciated by that organization, which is a great influence in our city for the training of young Christian workers.

EAGLES PREPARING FOR BIG TIME WEEK OF MAY 25.

The Paris Lodge of Eagles is preparing for a gala week beginning May 25, when they will have here under their auspices, the Littlejohn Carnival Company. There has never been a time in the history of amusements in Paris, when a more select number of attractions will be exhibited here than on this occasion of the coming of Littlejohn this season.

To sustain his past reputation for giving the public the best, he has gotten together some of the very best carnival attractions on the road which are to furnish the amusement for Paris people, the last week in May.

The Eagles are very jubilant over securing him with a contract, as this was the only open week during his summer tour, that was available and several other fraternal orders in Central Kentucky towns had made efforts to secure the dates.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anemia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in filthy ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a cold stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (acid) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anemic people may have been caused by lack of good fresh air breathed into the lungs, or by lack of good food, or by some other cause. Some people suffer from it, and they are not aware of it. There is a remedy for it, and it is a remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Is a blood cleanser and alternative that starts the liver and stomach into vigorous action. It then builds up the body by manufacturing rich red blood which feeds the heart, nerves, brain and every part of the body. The organs work smoothly like machinery running in oil. You feel clean, strong and vigorous instead of tired, weak and faint. Nowadays you can obtain Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Tablets, named as the standard form from all medicine dealers, or tablets by mail, prepaid in 10 or 25c. Address: R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

DR. PIERCE'S GREAT 1000 PAGE ILLUSTRATED COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER WILL BE SENT FREE, CLOTH BOUND FOR 21 ONE-CENT STAMPS.

A MISTAKEN IDEA

There are some people who still resort to drugged pills or alcoholic syrups to overcome colds, nervousness or general debility, and who know that the pure, unadulterated nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is eminently better, but refrain from taking it because they fear it may lead to excessive fat or obesity.

This is a mistaken idea, because Scott's Emulsion first strengthens the body before making flesh. Its blood-forming properties aid nature to throw off sickness by building health from its very source, and flesh is formed only by its continued use. Avoid alcoholic substitutes for SCOTT'S.

BURLEY BOARD HOLDS SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING IN LEXINGTON

The Board of Directors of the Burley Tobacco Company held its regular semi-annual meeting Tuesday morning at the Company's offices in the Fayette National Bank building, in Lexington. A full attendance of the directors was on hand with the exception of two, twenty-nine out of thirty-one answering the roll-call.

The meeting was presided over by President Clarence Lebus and most of the time of the meeting, which lasted until 2:30 in the afternoon, was taken up with the consideration of various reports. Reports on the season at eighteen loose leaf markets were presented, as well as the report of the progress which has been made at the Company's factory in Louisville.

President Lebus said that the meeting was a harmonious one, and that all the directors were satisfied with progress which had been made during the last six months. The Burley Company is a new organization but it has been growing by leaps and bounds and is fulfilling the expectations of its promoters.

Mr. John T. Collins, of Bourbon, a member of the Board of Directors, was among those in attendance.

CONDITION OF KENTUCKY STATE TREASURY MARCH 31

The balance in the State treasury at the close of business March 31, was $575,165.44, according to the report of the Auditor and Treasurer made public Monday. Of this $339,262.23 was in the school fund, $44,598.74 in the sinking fund, and $191,304.47 in the general expenditure fund. The outstanding interest bearing warrants amounted to $2,053,412.34 as compared with $1,902,882.02 February 28.

WALNUT TIMBER ALL USED. ON FARM IN JESSAMINE

Notwithstanding the rarity and expensiveness of walnut timber nowadays, there is one farm in Kentucky which can boast not only of its barns and tenant houses being built of walnut, but even the fences on the place are constructed of this valuable wood. This is the Coghill farm, located in the Shaker Bend section of Jessamine county. The larger part of this tract was formerly a vast walnut forest, and a considerable quantity of the walnut timber yet remains, the owners of the place cutting it only for domestic use.

Thousands of dollars worth of this valuable timber has accordingly been cut in past years for this purpose, and not only the tobacco barns and tenant houses have been constructed of rich black walnut, which if sent to the furniture factories of the North would have yielded the owners of the place a handsome fortune. There is perhaps not another farm in Kentucky on which so much valuable timber can yet be found, despite this prodigality.

HAZEL DAWN A FAVORITE IN HER NEW HOME

The following extract from the Lucaca, a Cuban-American paper published at Havana, when describing the Live Stock Fair at Havana, speaks of Hazel Dawn as follows:

"When Hazel Dawn appeared she had hardly stuck her nose through the croton hedge when everyone realized that Hazel Dawn was the last word in horseflesh. There are no words to describe the magnificent animal. Graceful as a gazelle, swift as an arrow, as intelligent as a school marm and as faithful and loveable as a mother, Hazel Dawn needs only to be seen and the show is a success to the beholder. There were other nice horses, but there is but one Hazel Dawn in the world—and she will never leave Cuba if the Government has to pass another $10,000,000 loan."

WHAT THE AUTOMOBILE MEANS TO A SMALL TOWN.

In the May American Magazine George Fitch, the famous humorist, writes a piece about automobiling in a small town. His contribution is entitled "The Auto Game in Homeburg." In the following passage he tells what the automobile means to a small town:

"In New York an auto means comfort and pleasure and advertisement, like a fur-lined overcoat with a Persian lamb collar. But in Homeburg it means a lot more. It keeps up busy and happy and full of conversation and debate. It pulls our old, retired farmers out of their shells and makes them yell for improvements. It unbuckles our tight-wads and gives our mechanical young loafers something to do. It helps town pride and it keeps our money circulating so fast that everyone has a chance to grasp a chunk as it goes by."

"It has made us so independent of railroads that we feel now when buying a ticket to Chicago as if we were helping the poor old line out. Our creamery has been collecting milk and shipping butter in an old roadster with a wagon bed thorax for a year. Two of our rural route mail carriers use small machines, except in wet weather, and good-roads societies in our vicinity are the latest fad. We raised one thousand five hundred dollars last spring to bring the Cannon Ball Trail from Chicago to Kansas City through our town and our hotel-keeper contributed one hundred dollars of it. He says we'll be on the gas-line tourist route to the coast after the trail has been marked and drained and graded up well."

"But mostly the automobile means freedom to us. We're no longer citizens of Homeburg, but of the congressional district. We're neighbors to towns we hadn't heard of ten years ago, and the horizon nowadays for most of us is located at the end of a ten-gallon tank of gasoline. Why, in the old days you had to go fifty miles east and double back to get into the north part of the county, and more of us had to cross the ocean than had been to Pallsburg in the north tire of townships. Now our commercial clubs meet together alternate months and about seventeen babies in our town have proud grandparents up there."

"That's part of what the automobile means to us. Can you blame me for being so interested in a new one? Maybe it will have some contrivance for scaring cows out of a narrow road?"

Anyway, Eve never had to sit up at night wondering if Adam was spending his evenings with some other women.

POULTRY NOTES.

Now is the time to be breeding out faults and breeding in virtues in your flock. Birds that are everlastingly wanting to sit are sure to be birds that have no great records as layers. They spend too much of their productive period on the nest. This trait can be bred out. Birds with loose leathers or fluff require more food to nourish them in winter than do birds of the close-feathered varieties. Breed with this thought in mind. What is your market? One market likes a large white egg. Another market will have only a big brown egg and will pay more for that than for the whitest egg to be found. That is a point to be considered. Even the best hens can, by careful selection and mating, be made to lay larger eggs—as large as duck eggs. This was illustrated in the Australian contest.

The old adage, found nowadays hanging up in so many offices and shops, "Plan your work; then work your plan," is a good motto for the farmer as for factory. Nothing is well done without organization, unity of purpose and consecutive effort.

Cockerels should be caponized when about eight weeks old. He is not fully developed until he is eight or nine months old. A mature bird that has been caponized will weigh from eight to twelve pounds—sometimes even more. The price obtained for capons is about twice the price received for cockerels.

Whatever breed is selected the first thing to note is the variety of the individual birds that are to make up your pens. Failure to select breeding stock of superior physical vigor has been the ruin of many a beginner. Fowls having a full amount of vitality are better able to resist disease and the various bacteria and organisms which destroy so many young birds or which penetrate the ovary of the hen and produce white diarrhoea in the newly hatched chick.

Exercise and the hard grains for feed are all right for some purposes, but not when preparing a bird for the table. Exercise and hard grain bring dry, sinewy flesh, while what we are looking for is soft, plump, juicy flesh. While fattening for the table all birds should be taken off the range and kept in limited areas. For grain, give ground oats—no corn.

Reducing Corsets

You can wear these corsets throughout the day without a distressed and thoroughly tired out feeling.

THE extra strength of materials used in Rengo Belt corsets gives support that is particularly restful when the garments are adjusted to reduce the excess flesh at the back, hips and abdomen. No other corsets have the strength to hold their shape so long under these trying conditions. With the elastic webbing inserts over the thighs and at back, freedom is allowed exactly where needed—stout women are dancing, and bending in these corsets with perfect grace and wonderful comfort.

The boning is of double watch spring steels—very pliable but extra strong—and is guaranteed not to rust. The crowning feature of Rengo Belt corsets is their thoroughly strong materials and tailoring—without which all other reducing corsets fail.

"Judith of Bethulia!"

(By Thomas Aldrich Bailey)

Among the striking scenes in this remarkable picture are those showing the battle outside the city, the assaults on the massive walls, the scenes of famine within, the unsuccessful attempt of the Jews to regain the walls, the tragic death of Holofernes at the hands of Judith, and the final destruction of the Assyrian camp. Strictest attention to detail in costume, weapons and instruments of war, customs of the people and correct scenic background are manifest throughout the entire picture.

A very hearty invitation is extended to the public to attend all the commencement exercises.

—Don't forget the pure food demonstration Saturday at Jones Bros.

—Mr. Aaron McConnell was in Cincinnati from Tuesday to Thursday on business.

—Mr. A. P. Gooding, of Mayslick, was the guest of his niece, Mrs. Ashby Leer, Thursday.

—Mr. W. H. H. Johnson, of Paris, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. M. R. Collier, this week.

—Mr. W. A. Butler stepped on a piece of glass in his office Wednesday and injured his foot. His condition is not serious.

—Mrs. Margaret Mitchell was called to Paris Wednesday to be at the bedside of her brother, Philip Maher, who underwent a serious operation for spinal trouble.

—The oil for the streets arrived Monday, but unless it can be put on today it will not be done before the first of next week. It has rained every day since its arrival.

—You are cordially invited to attend the pure food demonstration conducted by the National Biscuit Co., and the Heekin Coffee Co., Saturday, May 9, at Jones Bros. store. Come and bring your friends.

—Misses Stella Stirman and Gertrude Patrick will give their recital on Saturday evening, at which time they will graduate in music from the M. F. C. All friends of the young ladies and of the institution are invited to be present.

—Mrs. J. C. Leer, Sr., was called to the Jewish Hospital, in Cincinnati, Wednesday, to be with her sister, Mrs. R. O. Hopper, of Mayslick. The operation was more serious than it was thought at first. She is doing as well as can be expected at this writing.

—The following from here were among the number who attended the laying of the corner stone of the Masonic Temple at Carlisle, Monday afternoon: Mrs. Earle Barton, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Collier, J. B. Cray, S. C. Bascom, D. P. Jones, E. C. Hawkins and R. M. Caldwell.

—Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Miller and little sons left Thursday for a two weeks' visit to relatives at Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Henry Miller, who was in the home, will spend the time with Mr. W. R. Butler and Mrs. Margaret Hutchcraft, and with Mrs. J. F. McDaniel.

—Mr. Summers, of the American Lyceum Bureau, of St. Louis, Mo., who left here Monday, succeeded in making the Chautauqua a go. It will be held about the middle of July. Let everybody push it. Leave nothing undone to make it a pronounced success. Tickets and other papers will be here in a few days.

—The meeting of the Council held Wednesday evening was of more than ordinary interest owing to several matters of importance coming up before the Board. Four of the six members were present. An ordinance was passed prohibiting persons from loitering in and about the depot and prohibiting persons from jumping on and off trains within the city limits. The ordinance imposes a fine of from $2 to $20 for such offenses. The ordinance prohibiting the owners of chickens within the city limits from allowing their fowls to run at large, and which has been a subject of much interest since it was proposed, had its first reading, and will come up for passage at a later meeting. The permit to build a cottage at the corner of Seventh and Vimont streets, requested by Joe Green, colored, was rejected. This matter came up three meetings ago, but was objected to by J. H. Stuart, who has a residence on the opposite side of the street, and the Council deferred action on the permit, giving Stuart and Green time to reach an agreement, the latter offering to sell the property to Stuart for a certain price. It developed that there were no further negotiations until Wednesday, when Stuart offered to buy the property, but Green would not sell, as another piece of property he had in view had, in the meantime, been disposed of, and he declined the offer. When the matter came up one of the councilmen voted for the permit, one refused to vote and two were against it. It is said that Green will institute a suit in an effort to force the Council to grant the permit.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE WILL ADOPT SCHEDULE TO-MORROW

To-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock a committee representing the Sunday School Base Ball League will meet at the Peoples' Bank in this city for the purpose of arranging a schedule for the various teams to compose the organization.

The league was organized several days ago when Sunday Schools from all over the county were represented and teams were entered from Hutchinson, North Middletown, Spears Mill, Millersburg and Paris. The plan is to have the teams composed of men and boys who are members of the regular denomination Sunday schools.

Mr. J. W. Bacon has kindly tendered the use of the Paris base ball park where all the games played in this city will take place following the arrangement of the schedule the first game will be played the latter part of next week. It is likely the games will be played on Saturday of each week. The introduction of base ball under the direction of the Sunday Schools should be an innovation in Bourbon and the teams should receive a warm support. It has been a success in other counties and there is no reason it should not be in Bourbon. There is some splendid material among the Sunday school boys and excellent amateur performers are available.

Mr. R. F. Clendenin offers a handsome pennant to the successful club at the close of the season, while Mr. W. O. Hinton will present to the first player who knocks a home run, a bat. Mr. I. L. Price, the clothier, who always shows an interest in base ball will renew his offer of a shirt for every home run knocked on the local ground during the season.

I TOOK PE-RU-NA

Was Able to Sleep and Eat Again

Mrs. Mueller says: "I keep Peruna in the house constantly. When I am not feeling well I take a few doses. It always restores." Mrs. Mueller's story of her experience with Peruna fully explains why she always keeps Peruna on hand. A few years ago she was very sick. The trouble seemed to be the stomach and liver. She suffered great pain. Was unable to get anything to help her. She was growing weaker and weaker. She became tired of life.

MRS. M. MUELLER,
P. O. Box 321, Hawley,
Wayne Co., Penn.

Somebody suggested that she write to the Peruna Co. She did so. Through their advice she began to use Peruna. In a letter from her at this time she says: "Through the use of Peruna I have regained my health. I took only a bottle and a half when I was able to sleep and eat again and my nervousness disappeared." No wonder Mrs. Mueller keeps Peruna in the house. Under similar circumstances Peruna would be in every house in the land. Any one taking Peruna ought to have a free copy of the "Mills of Life." Address Peruna Co., Columbus, Ohio. People who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

A man doesn't worry much about a drink on Sunday until he learns that his wife forgot to order any beer and there isn't a bottle in the house. Then he develops a $900,000,000.00 thirst and wants to go out and throw rocks at the Government.

Paxtine

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or ulceration of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ills it has no equal. For ten years the Lydia E. TREATMENT FOR CUTWORM IN TOBACCO BEDS.

Complaints are reaching the Station of injuries by cutworms and flea beetles in tobacco beds. These pests can be controlled very largely by care, first, in preparing the beds, secondly, in keeping them covered and destroying weeds and grass about them, and finally, when worst comes to worst, by spraying the young plants with arsenate of lead or Paris green.

The cutworms are the young of several species of night flying moths, and have spent the winter in grasses, or weeds, about the beds. The burrowing of the beds destroys those within the area burned over, but others lurk among any vegetation that may be left immediately about the frames. A bare strip of five feet or more should therefore be left outside the beds, and if muslin covers must be removed this strip and wooden frames can be treated with creosote, the odor of which will afford some protection from worms disposed to travel across the bare area.

If gnawing insects have been allowed to get in the beds, the only thing to do is spray with arsenate of lead, three or four pounds in fifty gallons of water, or else use Paris green, one fourth pound in thirty gallons of water, with about a pound of slacked lime added to prevent burning. The arsenate of lead in the proportion recommended does no harm at all to the plants and requires no lime.

The above treatment is to be recommended also for the small brown flea beetles which sometimes infest the beds and gnaw numerous round holes in the leaves.

The arsenate of lead adheres to the leaves for some time, and should serve to protect them from these insects after the plants are set out in the field, though a second application may be necessary after they are well started.

BURLESON DEFENDS PARCEL POST IDEA

Postmaster General Burleson defended the parcel post Tuesday in an open letter, characterizing it as an accelerator of trade between cities and farms, and declaring its rates were based on operating costs in both the profitable territory, which is defined by the extent of the systems of private express companies, and the unprofitable territory into which the private express companies never go.

Mr. Burleson was replying to the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, which recently adopted resolutions opposing an increase in the weight limit, on the ground that it would drive express companies out of business. Mr. Burleson asserted that the companies would not be driven out of "profitable territory," unless they were relatively inefficient.

To Teach Tobacco Growing

Lexington—Benjamin F. Scherfflus, who for several years has been one of the tobacco experts of the Kentucky Experiment Station and College of Agriculture of State University, accompanied by his wife and little daughter, left here on a journey of 16,000 miles to Colombo, Ceylon, where he has been appointed to a lucrative position by the British Government to supervise the culture of tobacco. The little party started from here for New York and will stop over for a couple of days in Washington. From New York the party will sail for Southampton, England. There it will take one of the fast East Indian steamers for the long ocean voyage. It will be about the middle of June when they reach their destination. The selection of Prof. Scherfflus for this post is another feather in the cap of State University, and this is the second tobacco expert trained at this institution whose ability for this class of work has been recognized by the British Government, his brother, W. H. Scherfflus, having some time ago been selected to go to South Africa on a similar mission.

ON THE ROAD TO MEXICO FROM VERA CRUZ.

(From "Mexico," by E. Reginald Enoch.)

There are two main-traveled ways into Mexico. The first lies across the stormy waters of the Mexican Gulf to the yellow strands of Vera Cruz, beyond which the "star mountain" of the Aztecs, Citlaltepetla, (Orizaba, 18,250 feet high) rears its gleaming snow-cap in the mid-heavens above the clouds. It was here that Cortes landed four centuries ago, and it is the route followed by European travelers to-day. Here stands Ulloa, the promontory fortress where more than one of Mexico's short-lived rulers languished and died of yellow fever, and which was the last stronghold of Spain. Beyond it arise the white buildings and towers of Vera Cruz, a dream city, as beheld from the gulf, of interest and beauty, and to the west are the broad coastal deserts. Piled up to the horizon are the wooded slopes and canyons of the great Sierra Madre, topped by the gleaming Orizaba, towering upward in solitary majesty. We stand upon a torrid strand, yet gaze upon an icy mountain.

One of the most remarkable railways in the world ascends this steep zone, and serpentine among sheer descents to gain the summit of abrupt escarpments from which—a remarkable feature of the eastern slope of Mexico—the traveler looks down into another country and climate, upon those tropical valleys and which he has left behind. This is the Mexican Vera Cruz railway. Rising from the tierra caliente, or hot land, a tropical region of dense vegetation, of jungle and lagoon, where there are the shores, woods and groves teeming with animal and vegetable life, the road enters the more temperate zone, tierra templada, extending upward toward the Great Plateau. The limit of this climate zone is at an elevation of 6,000 feet above sea level. Rising rapidly thence up to and over the escarpments of the Sierra Madre and the high plains, we enter upon the tierra fria, or cold lands, ranging from 6,000 to 8,000 feet above the sea level. Above this rise the high summits of the Mexican Cordilleras, with their culminating peaks, some few of which penetrate the atmosphere above the limit of perpetual snow.

The earliest railway of Mexico, that from Vera Cruz to the City of Mexico, traverses the country in the most difficult direction, transversely, rising from the water and the Atlantic littoral, and ascending the steep escarpments of the Eastern Sierra Madre to fall down into the lake valley of Mexico, bringing outside civilization to that isolated interior world.

But Mexico's singular topographical position has not secured her from invasion. Three times the city on the lakes has fallen to foreign invaders—the Spaniards of the Conquest, the French of Napoleon and the Americans of the United States. Indeed, the flat and arid table-land stretching away to the north was formerly a more potent natural defense than the Cordilleran heights which front on the Atlantic seas, and the axiom of Lerdo in well brought to mind in considering the geographical environment: "Between weakness and strength, the desert!"

Old Coins Found.
Princeton—While plowing in a field on the farm of Joseph Scott in the Scottsburg vicinity of this county, Nelson Darnall, aged about twenty-four years, unearthed nearly $200 in silver coin, besides some foreign coins of varying denominations. The money consisted of an number of pieces, ranging in denomination from a dime to a dollar, but consisted mostly of half dollars. The dates on the coins ranged from 1796 to 1830. It is said that several of the coins have a premium value, and that one of them, a half dollar, is worth $50. An interesting feature of the case is that ten years ago another man, plowing in the same field, unearthed about $400 in silver coins.

Many a good woman spends an hour rigging on her trotting harness and compressing a 48-inch waist into a 36-inch straight-jacket so she can attend a meeting and indignantly about the foolish heathens who wear rings in their noses.

Sit down and figure it out and you will find that if you had left unsaid two thirds of what you said during the day the world would have been just as well off.

We do not claim to be an oracle. As a rule you will find that the sort of men who know nothing of mathematics are the greatest success at multiplying the census.

The Man Who Pulls Teeth With His Fingers.

Mr. A. D. Brown, the man who used to pull teeth with his fingers on stock sales days at Paris, Ky., and whose work was the talk of the whole county.

Last fall this same Mr. Brown came to Paris on Court Day and advertised a medicine known as Brown's Snake Oil Liniment, and left it for sale with Chas. E. Butler & Co., druggists of Paris, Ky. Since then Mr. Butler has sold hundreds of bottles of this wonderful medicine, and makes the broad statement that it has produced more cures than any medicine that was ever sold through his drug store.

Last Court Day Mr. Brown introduced on the streets, through Mr. Butler's drug store, a medicine known as Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form, and a great many bottles were sold under a positive guarantee that it would cure all forms of Stomach Trouble, Constipation, Catarrh, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Water Brash, Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Chills and Fever, Diseases common to Women.

Its introduction into every community has been followed by some of the most remarkable cures. Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form is guaranteed to cure Constipation, Indigestion, and to set the stomach right. It matters not of how long standing the disease may be. At the same time tones up the entire nervous system, gives strength and vigor to those who are weak, sick and nervous. To prove all this we ask you to go and have a talk with Mr. Butler at his store, buy a bottle of the Native Herbs, and if it is not just as we recommend and advertise it, you can go back to Mr. Butler and he will give you your dollar just as cheerfully as he takes it. Brown's Native Herbs in Liquid Form and Brown's Snake Oil Liniment, remember, are sold under a positive guarantee. Try it today.

SICK HEADACHE.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache and dizziness, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's Tablets. She says: "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health." For sale by all dealers. (May) (adv)

SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA AND STOPS ITCHING

Just Like Any Cold Cream

With the first application of bold-sulphur cream the angry itching attending any eczema eruption ceases and its remarkable healing powers begin. Sulphur, says a renowned dermatologist, just common bold-sulphur, made into a thick cream, will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out with Eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the Eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth.

He tells Eczema sufferers to get from any good pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream, and apply it to the irritated, inflamed skin, the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years this soothing, healing sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous affections by reason of its parasite-destroying property. It is not only parasiticidal, but also antipruritic, antiseptic and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subdue the irritation and heal the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin. LIGHTNING A PROLIFIC SOURCE OF FOREST FIRES

Exhaustive inquiry has established the fact that lightning ranks next to railroads as a source of forest fires. Forest officers say that the increasing care with fire on the part of the railroads and the public generally tends to make lightning the largest single contributing cause.

This statement represents a change of view from that held less than a decade ago in this country, when forest journals gravely argued whether lightning caused forest fires, though it was known that trees were the objects most often struck. Trees are said to be oftenest struck simply because they are so numerous, and extending upward they shorten the distance between the ground and the clouds; further, their branches in the air and roots well into the earth invite electrical discharges.

While certain trees are said to invite lightning, and others to be immune from stroke, it seems to be a fact that any kind of tree will be struck, and the most numerous tree species in any locality is the one most likely to suffer.

Other things being equal, lightning seeks the tallest tree, or an isolated tree, or one on high ground. A deep-rooted tree is a better conductor than a shallow-rooted one, and a tree full of sap, or wet with rain, is of course a better conductor than a dry one.

Lightning sets fire by igniting the tree itself, particularly when it is dead, or partly decayed and punky, or by igniting the dry humus or duff at its base. The forest soil, when dried out, ignites readily, because it is made of partly decayed twigs and leaves, and it can hold a smoldering fire for a considerable period. It is probable that most of the lightning-set fires start in the duff.

In the mountains of Southern California, Arizona and New Mexico there are likely to be each year a number of electrical disturbances known as "dry thunder storms." They come at the end of the long dry season, and being unaccompanied by rain are very likely to start many serious fires. For this reason the forest service has to keep up its maximum fire fighting strength in those regions until the rains are fully established. In the plans and organization for fire fighting the service aims particularly to catch these unpreventable lightning-set fires at the time they start.

ALABAMA U. S. JUDGESHIP IS OFFERED TO CLAYTON.

The appointment of Representative H. D. Clayton to be United States Judge for Northern Alabama is ready at the White House to be sent to the Senate. Mr. Clayton is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and if seniority is followed Representative E. Y. Webb, of North Carolina, author of the Webb liquor law, will succeed him. He is expected to bring out the prohibition bill at this session if he becomes chairman of the committee.

The appointment of Mr. Clayton means that Representative R. Y. Thomas, Jr., will rank fourth on judiciary. Mrs. Clayton was formerly of Georgetown, Ky.

WARNING TO HAVE MAINE SEED POTATOES RE-EXAMINED.

On account of recent discovery of violations of the Maine quarantine regulations, all purchasers of Maine seed potatoes are warned to have their stock examined by the State expert, before planting. Unscrupulous shippers, it is learned, have been sending diseased potatoes to New York, Boston and other points, where certificates of inspection have been fraudulently attached to the bags. While in general the Maine authorities have endeavored to see that none but sound potatoes left the State, certain inspectors have been negligent and have certified diseased stock. The Department has, therefore, advised buyers to disregard all certificates issued hitherto.

A new metal can stand a strain of 1,000 tons to the square inch. Shucks! Any fat woman's straight front can beat that.

ELGIN BOARD OF TRADE COMBINATION DISSOLVED

The Government's decree in the anti-trust case against the Elgin (Illinois) Board of Trade was entered before Federal Judge Landis. In accepting the decree Judge Landis declared that the action in which the members of the Board of Trade directorate acquiesced marked the end of the "coloration of butter prices."

The case was dismissed against the members of the American Association of creamery butter manufacturers, originally joined as defendants with the Elgin Board.

By the terms of the decree the Elgin Board of Trade and its members are permanently enjoined from further engaging in the combination or conspiracy charged in the bill. Some of the principal requirements of the decree are that the Elgin Board shall not appoint any person, persons or committee to fix or suggest price of butter. That it shall cease to maintain a Quotation Committee or other agency which shall fix the price of butter. That it shall refrain from quoting or publishing any figures purporting to be the market price unless they are actually obtained on the board by bona fide sales.

Other methods of determining the prices at which butter should be sold are barred by the decree.

The entering of the decree does not prevent the Government from reopening the case should the provisions of the court's rule be not obeyed.

FEELS LIKE A NEW WOMAN

As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Dispelles Backache, Headaches and Dizziness.

Piqua, Ohio.—"I would be very ungrateful if I failed to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the praise it deserves, for I have taken it at different times and it always relieved me when other medicines failed, and when I hear a woman complain I always recommend it. Last winter I was attacked with a severe case of organic weakness. I had backache, pains in my hips and over my kidneys, headache, dizziness, lassitude, had no energy, limbs ached and I was always tired. I was hardly able to do my housework. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on one other occasion, and it had helped me so I took it again and it has built me up, until now I feel like a new woman. You have my hearty consent to use my name and testimonial in any way and I hope it will benefit suffering women."—Mrs. ORPHA TURNER, 431 S. Wayne St., Piqua, Ohio.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Story of John Champe.

[NOTE—The story of Sergeant John Champe, as told in the following, was published in a Norfolk, Va., paper many years ago, and the original is now in the possession of Swift Champe, of this city. "Lee's Memoirs," an old volume published in Philadelphia in 1790, one of which is in the possession of Capt. Jas. R. Rogers, of Cane Ridge, this county, give pages to the heroism of this member of the Continental Army, who was selected by Gen. Washington to undertake the task of capturing Benedict Arnold, the arch traitor. Champe abhorred the idea of deserting the army of his country even in an effort to perform a duty, which, if successful, would be used as an example. The honor conferred upon him above so many others appealed to his loyalty. The adventure was unsuccessful, but the heroism of Champe will live forever in the heart of every true American. As stated in the narrative following, after the close of the Revolution he moved to Kentucky, blazing the trail with Daniel Boone, and it was in this State he died. Champe families throughout Kentucky can trace their lineage to this hero of the Revolution.]

The pioneers of Loudoun County, Va., were courageous people, of strong will power and were actuated by a lofty purpose, that of securing a home. They were not attracted by worldly gain. Their first great desire seemed to have been to secure a home where they could rest under their own vine and fig tree. To them the home was the nucleus round which the State grew that later developed and broadened into the nation. Thus the early home builders of Loudoun County were nation builders as well. The hero of this sketch was no exception to this rule, except that he was a little more venturesome, and perhaps warlike.

John C. Champe was born in Loudoun County, Va., in 1757, the same year that the county was formed and twenty-five years after the first settlement of the name Loudoun, and just as located. Nothing is known of his boyhood days, but it is safe to assume he grew up as hundreds of other boys did at that period; his education was limited to the ability of his parents to give him private instruction as there were neither public or private schools in the county at that early period. When he grew large enough, probably assisted his father in clearing the forest around the cabin home. The early county records fail to show the location of the cabin home, but it was probably near Waterford on the road to Clarks Gap, near Catotchin Church, and is said to be still standing.

The records in the War Department at Washington show John Champe to have enlisted in 1776, in his 19th year, as private in Capt. Harry Lee (Light Horse Harry) Company of first light dragoons Continental Troop. He was first mustered for pay in November, 1777, and was transferred to Lee's Legion and appointed Corporal April 7, 1778, and promoted to Sergeant Major January 1, 1779. The same records also state he was Orderly Sergeant. His name also appears on a roll bearing date of August 25, 1783, at Council Chamber Continental Congress as door-keeper and sergeant-at-arms. At that date Continental Congress appears to have adjourned from Philadelphia on account of riots and reconvened at Trenton, N. J.

Sergeant John Champe had been a scout for Washington's Army and had made a brilliant record; but perhaps his greatest daring exploit was his effort to capture the arch-traitor, Benedict Arnold, who, like Judas, sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, in the beginning of the Revolutionary struggle. Arnold had been one of Washington's best Generals; he was brave to recklessness, but an unscrupulous tyrant. He had been severely wounded on more than one field, for which Continental Congress had made him a Major-General; he had been detected in forgeries on commissary department, and by a court martial in December, 1779, was convicted and was severely reprimanded by Washington. Arnold confessed and bitterly repented and pleaded poverty as the cause, but expressed unbounded patriotism in the American cause and was given command of the valuable fortress of West Point on the Hudson. He had hardly gotten warm in his new position before he secretly opened correspondence with Sir Henry Clinton, the British Commander, and proposed to surrender the American fortress at West Point to the British for £10,000, about $50,000 and to receive a general commission in the British army. By the capture of Major Andre, a British spy, with papers that revealed the treacherous plot, the damnable scheme was miscarried. Andre was convicted and hung Oct. 2, 1780, and Benedict Arnold deserted and fled to the British camp in New York City where he was placed in command of New York City, then a city of about 12,000 inhabitants. The British magnified the importance of Arnold's treachery, claiming it was the disintegration of Washington's Army, that others would follow Arnold's example, who were enjoying Washington's confidence, and stated that Gen. Gates was planning desertion also. Gen. Washington received this information with considerable allowance and was endeavoring to counteract it by the capture of the treacherous Arnold, he immediately sent for Col. Lee (Light Horse Harry), and stated to him his desire for the capture of Benedict Arnold, and asked Col. Lee to make a detail of one of his most reliable commissioned officers to report to his headquarters at once for instructions. Col. Lee stated his command doubtless contained a commissioned officer capable of such a mission, but if the General would allow him he would be pleased to suggest the name of a Sergeant of dragoons of muscular build, quick action with a nerve of steel, cool headed and brave unto death, who he believed would fill every requirement of the commander. General Washington asked the sergeant's name, his weight and age, the county and State he was from, with record of service.

Col. Lee replied his name was Sergeant John Champe, 23 years old, and a native of Loudoun county, Va., and enlisted 1776, and—"There, that will do, Maj. Lee," interrupted Washington. "I know Sergeant Champe; he is just the person wanted, I am surprised that I did not think of him myself, order him to report to me at once." Sergeant Champe responded to orders when General Washington, Col. Lee and Sergeant Champe were seated together in the General Headquarters. General Washington unfolded his scheme to capture Benedict Arnold, as follows:

Sergeant Champe feign desertion from the American army and make his way to the British Headquarters in New York City and enlist in Arnold's command, and at the first opportunity capture Benedict Arnold and bring him to General Washington's Headquarters alive. The details of which were to be left to the judgment of the Sergeant.

Sergeant Champe sat with bowed head in silence meditation of the mighty responsibility so suddenly thrust upon him, but arose and saluted the commander with the remark, General I would have preferred that you would have selected someone else for the hazardous mission, but I shall endeavor to obey your orders. Maj. Lee gave Sergeant Champe three English guineas and bade him good night, the Sergeant mounted his horse and departed in a drizzling rain started in the direction of New York. The American pickets were soon encountered. The Sergeant put spurs to his horse and dashed through bushes to the river's brink abandoned his stud and spring into the water—and was soon picked up by a British galley that was patrolling the river. The Sergeant was put under arrest in the hold of a vessel until morning when he was conducted to the Adjutant General's office, when he was questioned at great length, a report of the case was made and a guard called and conducted the prisoner to the Headquarters of Sir Henry Clinton, when the American deserter was questioned carefully, particularly regarding the reported defection in Washington's army. Sir Henry Clinton made a report of the questions and answers of the American deserter and referred the case to Benedict Arnold when almost a repetition was gone through, Sergeant Champe adhering with great exactness to his story of desertion. Arnold informed Sergeant Champe he was recruiting a Arnold Legion and invited the Sergeant to enlist giving him the rank of Sergeant, but Champe deserted because he was tired of a soldier's life particularly, because he had been poorly paid and poorly fed, and he would prefer not to enlist if he could get other employment. Gen. Arnold assured the Sergeant that in case he did not enlist his sincerity would be questioned and that he would be liable to be arrested and put in prison and at hard labor for life. Sergeant Champe stated he might possibly consent to enlist if his services would be confined to duty at Headquarters or in New York. Arnold assured the Sergeant he could arrange that and that he would be pleased to have him at Headquarters. Sergeant Champe reluctantly consented to enlist and donned the British red coat and began to make arrangements to carry out his orders from General Washington. At that time there were many persons in New York who were intensely loyal to the American cause, and were fully aware of Arnold's treachery, and quietly denounced it in unmeasured terms. General Washington had given Sergeant Champe the names of some of those who he could confide in for co-operation; he soon found their acquaintance and secured the services of two stalwart patriots who counted it a pleasure to risk their lives in the cause of the liberty loving colonists, and placed themselves ready to co-operate. In any effort to capture the arch traitor Arnold. It was Arnold's custom, going from his headquarters to his residence after night to pass through his garden, and the night agreed upon, Champe and two confederates were to be secreted there and seize Arnold, gag and tie him and carry him to the river where a boat was in waiting to convey them to the Jersey shore at Hoboken where a detachment of Light Horse Harry's Dragoons were to be in waiting, Sergeant Champe having previously written Col. Lee to meet him at a certain night at 2 a. m.

The evening the kidnapping was to occur Sir Edward Clinton ordered a forward movement of the army and changed Arnold's headquarters and placed him in charge of the embarkment of troops to sail South, Arnold's Legion in which Sergeant Champe had enlisted, was ordered to be placed on board a vessel and the next morning sailed for Norfolk, Va., where they arrived early in January, 1781. Arnold's Legion was ordered to report to Lord Cornwallis, near Pittsburg, Va. Benedict Arnold was ordered to return to New York and assigned to another command, while Arnold's Legion, including Capt. Cameron's company, in which Sergeant Champe was temporarily enlisted, was ordered to North Carolina.

The supreme object of Sergeant Champe's mission having failed, for want of opportunity, he lost no time in extricating himself from a situation in which he had been placed by the fickle fortunes of war, and while his company was on the march to North Carolina he again deserted and rejoined Gen. Green's command of the Continental Army, then confronting Lord Cornwallis near the Carolina border. Gen. Green had previously been informed of the mission of Sergeant Champe and of course gave him hearty welcome and at the same time obtained some valuable information concerning the strength and maneuvers of the British Army of which the Sergeant had been a special student. General Green presented the Sergeant with a fine horse and escort and ordered him to report to General Washington. The Sergeant's escapade had become now well known in both the American and English armies. The English declared that if he was ever captured he should be gibbeted in the most cruel manner, and in view of these circumstances Washington gave him an honorable discharge.

Sergeant Champe's investigation while in Arnold's Legion completely exonerated Gen. Gates from alleged implication of Benedict Arnold's treachery.

After the war Benedict Arnold went to England and received about $31,500 in cash for his treachery and was besides the recipient of public disgust and ostracism, amounting almost to nothing. Money could not buy happiness. He died in 1796 in London unhonored and his name unsung.

His extra hazardous service for the American cause had endeared him to some special recognition, and at the recommendation of Gen. Washington, Sergeant Champe was given the position of doorkeeper or Sergeant-at-Arms of the Continental Congress then in session at Trenton, New Jersey, but this position was not congenial to Sergeant Champe, whose strenuous nature demanded a more outdoor life, and on the adjournment of Congress he returned to Loudoun County and married the lady of his choice and began farming near Dover, about three miles north of Middleburg, Va., but being of restless nature moved to near Leesburg, and finally removed with his family to Kentucky, where he is said to have died in 1797. Like Daniel Boone he blazed the way of civilization through the wilderness for civilization to follow. The 4th of March, 1797, John Adams was inaugurated President of the United States, his administration was handicapped from the beginning by foreign complications, the country had only partially recovered from the tremendous sacrifices made to secure our independence from the mother country.

France was smarting under the disappointment of not being able to draw the United States into the war between France and England, and had given the American Ambassador, Mr. Pinckney, his passport from Paris and would not renew negotiations until the American Government should pay France a quarter of a million dollars as a kind of a bonus to secure peace. Mr. Pinckney grew eloquent with indignation and disclosed that the United States had "millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

American commerce was now assailed upon the high seas, practically a declaration of war and so accepted. Gen. Washington was again placed in command of the army. Col. Harry Lee was put in command of the cavalry. General Washington wrote Col. Lee to have Sergeant Champe again called into service and to be placed at the head of a cavalry command. A courier was despatched to Loudoun county, who soon returned with the information there obtained that Sergeant Champe had emigrated to Kentucky and died there in 1797. An American Navy of 6 frigates and privateers, under command of Commodore Truxton, was ordered to sea. The American flag ship Constellation attacked the French ship Insurgent on the high seas, and a naval battle ensued that perhaps has never been equaled for heroic fighting and victorious results. The American vessel carried 310 men with 38 guns, and had 26 killed and 160 wounded, while the French vessel carried 400 men and 45 guns and lost 40 killed and 110 wounded.

At 2 o'clock a. m. the French vessel began to retreat and two days later was abandoned in a sinking condition, only saving her crew while the vessel and all her guns were lost. The American vessel, though victorious, was unable to pursue her antagonist on account of having all her masts and sails shot away and left drifting almost hopeless on the ocean, all vessels in those days were driven by sail, steam had not yet been applied.

The historian, Brayman, gives a vivid description of that midnight battle. He says side by side these two ships sat upon the mighty deep flinging out their crashing hail and rolling out with terrific violence upon the heaving ocean. Minute and hours rolled on, the night grew deeper and black and the wind howled and shrieked along the heavens, but man heeded not the elements. That night's battle was terrific and sublime and henceforth the American navy was irresistible on the seas. This battle was fought February 9, 1800, at night during a severe storm and has demonstrated to the world the superiority of the American Navy for aggressive fighting and also resulted in banishing French pirates from the high seas. The French never attempted to our shores with an army and of course the war was not carried beyond these engagements at sea. General Washington soon resigned and General Hamilton was his successor. Meanwhile Napoleon Bonaparte the First came to be a power in France and immediately sought peace with the United States, that resulted in the Louisiana purchase.

Captain Cameron, in whose company Sergeant Champe had temporarily enlisted in Arnold's Legion, had located in Virginia after the Revolutionary war and while traveling through Loudoun County put up for the night at a farm house. The land proved to be Sergeant Champe's. The two men recognized each other with some misgivings, but greatly enjoyed meeting again. Cameron was hospitably entertained and remained several days with farmer Champe.

The cabin home of Sergeant Champe referred to in the beginning of this paper near the Catotchin Church, on Waterford road, was most likely the home of John Champe's father, as Sergeant Champe located near Dover after the Revolutionary war. By the record of the War Department he is shown to have enlisted in 1776, in his 19th year, before he had probably secured a home. The Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Virginia should endeavor to locate the cottage of Sergeant Champe and have a suitable monument erected therein, the expense of which would be borne by the Government.

Our authority tells us that Sergeant Champe went to Giles County, West Virginia, and died there about 1805. This, I believe, is a mistake, as the War Department has information that he located in Kentucky. There is quite a large family of Champe's living in Kentucky, some of them prominent as jurists.

One of our American poets has written a beautiful ballad of the Revolution, containing 28 verses. These are here given:

Come sheath your sword my gallant boys,
And listen to my story.
How Sergeant Champe one gloomy night
Set off to catch a tory.

Lee found a Sergeant in his camp
Made up of bone and muscle.
Who never knew fear, and
Many a year
With torries had a tussle.

To Southern climes the ship-
pencil blew,
And anchored in Virginia.
Where Champe escaped and joined his friends
Among the Picaninies.
